

On or before the day of trial, Mr. Douglas Lloyd will take inked impressions of the Defendants' fingerprints and compare those inked impressions with the inked impressions of fingerprints contained on Forms I-213 Record of Deportable/Inadmissible Alien, Forms I-214 Aviso De Dechechos, and/or foreign identification documents. The Government anticipates that after comparing these fingerprint impressions, Mr. Lloyd will testify that the inked impressions on the relevant documents in each case are of the same individual, the Defendant, in each of these cases. For all of these exhibits, the Government anticipates that Mr. Lloyd will testify that those inked impressions could not have been made by any other person. The Government anticipates that Mr. Lloyd will find and testify that those particular inked fingerprint impressions affixed to those documents consist of a pattern containing a sufficient number of characteristics to establish a positive identification.

The basis and the reasons for this conclusion are based upon standards in the field of fingerprint examination and comparison. These standards are required and followed by the International Association of Identification (IAI). The comparison technique is A.C.E.V. (Analyze, Compare, Evaluate and Verify). This standard is commonly required and/or used by the FBI, Federal Courts, and State Courts across the United States.

Documentation of Mr. Lloyd's qualifications as a fingerprint examiner has been provided to defense counsel.

Respectfully submitted,
